wounded. Brigadier General Stanley is following the rebels sharply, but they had too much start, He rode fifty-two miles within twenty hours. The rebel cavelry, in considerable bodies, constantly hover on our flanks watching our communication. The Government ought to reinforce the cavalry of this department, to mount infantry regiments to pursue rebels. The rebel General Wheeler has been made a major general, and is in command of all the rebel cavatry in Tennessee. Capt. Elmer Otis, 4th U. S. Cavalry, has reported to Gen. Rosecrans for duty, and will probably be assigned to command the division of Brig. Gen. R. H. Johnson during his absence. Gen. McCook has command of the right wing. Brig. Gen. Granger commands Gen. Rosecrans' division. It is reported that the enemy are being reinforced. An intercepted letter from a member against Pragg so strong that he will be super seded. The writer admits that notwithstanding the Rebets captured most of the guns and several thousand prisoners from us, they were hadly whipped. He says the slaughter of their officers was awful, and although the fighting of the Rebel army was splendid, they were teaten by superior generalship and by the obstinacy of the Yankees. Weather continued stormy, and rivers swelling.

by the Privateer Alabama. NEW YORK, Jan 26 .- The steamer Mary A Boardman has arrived from New Orleans on the 13th, via Key West on the 20th. She brings Galveston advices to the 17th, brought to Key West by the steamer Northern Light from

New Orleans. On the 17th the United States sloop-of-war Brooklyn, in company with six other Federal steamers, were off Galveston They saw a steamer in the offing, when the steamer Hatteras immediately got under way to speak her, and when within hailing distance asked who she was, receiving answer: "Her Majesty's sloop-of-war Spitfire." The commander of the Hatteras told them to wait and he would send a boat to her, and had just lowered a boat, with an officer and crew in her, when the steamer opened her broadsides and fired into the Hatteras.

The Brooklyn immediately got under way and started in pursuit of the stranger, but night coming on she lost sight of her, and was compelled to give up the chase. On returning the Breeklyn found the Hatteras had sunk in nine fathoms of water. The officers of the Mary Boardman are un-able to give further particulars. The steamer

The marine expedition of which so much has been said has not yet been started; but a land force which was sent forward on the 17th inst. towards the railroad encountered a force of 1,300 rebels at Pollocksville. Our troops drove them from the town and took possession of it.

THE MURDER OF NEGROES AT HARPETH SHOALS .- We trust, for the honor of humanity, that the accounts we have received of the shooting of negroes by the rebels at Harpeth Shoals are wholly untrue, or, at least, greatly exaggerated. Eighteen negroes, it is said, cabin boys, deckhands, and chambermaids, found on the captured Federal transports, were murdered in the most shocking manner. Many of them, it is represented, were tied and taken to an open field near the Shoals, and deliberately shot down in cold blood. Two of the negro servants on the Slidell got in between the wheel and stern of the boat and let themselves down into the water, holding on to the rudder. They were discovered by the rebels, and several soldiers were ordered into a skiff, and, rowing close up to the unfortunate negroes, discharged the contents of their muskets at them, literally blowing their heads into atoms.

The life of the chambermaid of the Trio was saved by Mr. Hurley, the clerk, claiming her as his slave, whom he was removing to Ken tucky. And even with this pretext he had the greatest difficulty in saving her from death a the hands of the bloody-minded commander of the rebels, Gol. Wade. - Louisville Journal

Mr. Utermehle explained the measure at
